Necklace and Rings While

71 PEARLS MISSING.

Pawnshop Clerk Who Refused
Loan on Them Is Also Arrested.

Matty Crawley was arrested at No. 48 West Fifty-second street today on a charge of stealing jewelry valued at more than $11,000 from Miss Sophie Brandt, an opera singer, who lives with her mother in an apartment house at No. 132 West Forty-ninth street.

Miss Brandt charges that the young West Indian negroes, who were formerly employed as her maid, entered her sleeping apartments early the morning of Oct. 31 and took a pearl necklace of seventy-one graduated gems, a sapphire ring worth $500, a princess ring valued at $1,000 and a diamond and ruby ring worth $500.

The night before the robbery the maid told Miss Brandt her baby had died in Madison Hospital. She wanted to come to the apartment early the next day to get her work done and then leave to arrange the burial of the child.

Mrs. Brandt, the singer's mother, let the maid into the apartment at 7 o'clock in the morning and returned to bed. It was then the maid opened the jewelry case, according to her own story to-day, and took the jewelry.

MISS BRANDT IDENTIFIES MAID UNDER NEW NAME.

Miss Brandt discovered the loss that evening. She immediately notified the police and Detectives Fitzpatrick and McLean of the Central Office were assigned to the case. To-day they found the maid living at the Fifty-second street address under the name "Matty Jones." Miss Brandt identified her as Matty Crawley, the thief, who had been seen slipping into Miss Brandt's apartment while the singer was asleep and took the necklace and the rings. Then she went to the pawn shop of Herman Isaacs on Eighth avenue. A clerk by the name of Frederick Samuels, thirty-four years old, No. 32 West One Hundred and Forty-eighth street, was on duty. On the strength of the maid's story and his own admissions that he had accepted some of the jewelry, he was taken into custody to-day on the charge of receiving stolen goods. Samuels, the detective learned, told the maid the necklace was of imitation French pearls and refused to give her any money on it. She had asked $100. He did take the gold clasp, containing some large sized diamonds, and gave her money on that, telling her, she said, to take the rings to a pawnshop and cash them down the avenue.

NECKLACE MISSING, AND PAVN-TICKETS DESTROYED.

After she had gone she remembered the necklace and went back and asked Samuels about it. He told her that he did not remember seeing it after she had gone. She then went to the pawnshop and found the tickets for the necklace had been destroyed. When the colored girl was taken to Police Headquarters, Detectives Heich and Conn said they had arrested her in May, 1911, on complaint of Mrs. Dorothy Peters of No. 210 West Twenty-seventh street, who lost several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry and clothing under similar circumstances. The Crawley girl was at that time arraigned before Magistrate Butler in West Side Court and held in a $1,000 bail. When time for her appearance in court came she was not there, but Inspector Hughes said a negro lawyer appeared for her and showed a death certificate, saying she had died in Baltimore under the name of Florence Smith. The District-Attorney will be asked to investigate this phase of the case.

The negroes were arraigned before Magistrate Harris in West Side Court with Samuels. She was held without bail and Samuels was held in $15,000 bail (which he did not procure) in order to give the police and Assistant District Attorney Sullivan an opportunity to go to the pawnshop with search warrants issued by Magistrate Harris to look for the missing necklace.

LETS MAN OUT OF JAIL TO WED, ON PLEA OF FIANCEE.

Wedding Set for July 15 Prevented by Sieger's Arrest
Four Days Before.

Assistant District-Attorney Hoas of Brooklyn received this letter yesterday morning from Miss Margaret H. Haa-haugh of Passaic, N. J.:

"My Dear Mr. Hoas: My fiance, Charles Sieger, has been in the Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn ever since July 11. Our wedding day had been set for July 15, but meanwhile he was arrested on a charge of assault. Now, won't you use your influence and get him paroled, so that we can be married as soon as possible?"

Mr. Hoas had Sieger arraigned before County Judge Fawcett, who allowed him to go on his own recognizance. Sieger and Miss Haa-haugh were married late in the afternoon by a Justice in the City Hall, Jersey City.

Sieger is accused of throwing a brick at a policeman in Brooklyn, while the latter was making an arrest. At his first trial the jury disagreed. Sieger will have to stand trial again next month.

Police Get Runaway Girls.

Ruby Klein, eighteen years, and Dorothy Golden, seventeen, runaways from this city, were caught in Philadelphia yesterday afternoon. Their parents will bring them back today. Rose lived at No. 5 West One Hundred and Twenty street and Dorothy at No. 42 Johnson avenue, Brooklyn. Both were demonstrators in show windows. They left the city last Friday.

This Is Howard Bennett Who Never Smoked, Drank, Cursed or Kissed a Girl

He Is Twenty-one Now and Has Been Awarded a Prize Gold Watch for His Abstinence Record.

He Says Girls Never Bothered Him Nor He Them;
Tobacco, Liquor and Profanity Lack Charm.

(Special to The Evening World.)

LUUDLOW CENTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—Howard Bennett of this village has become twenty-one without either kissing a girl or having been kissed by one outside his own family. Nor is this his only claim to distinction, for, in addition, he has never tasted intoxicating liquor, indulged in tobacco in any form nor used profane or objectionable language. Moreover, while Bennett has been dubbed "The Angel Child" by rampant newspaper paragraphers, there are no outward signs of his joining the heavenly chorus; on the contrary, Bennett is sturdily built and is rated one of the best life insurance risks in the community.

Because he has reached manhood's estate without yielding to the vices of drinking, smoking or swearing, Bennett has received a handsome gold watch from a fund provided by Charles D. Rood, millionaire promoter and former resident of Ludlow Center.

Abstinence from kissing was not prescribed by Mr. Rood as a prerequisite in qualifying for a gold watch, but on the occasion of the presentation in Grange Hall by the village minister that was modestly admitted by Bennett to be one of his minor accomplishments.

NEVER HAD A DESIRE TO KISS
A GIRL IN HIS LIFE.

Bennett is of medium height, with fair skin and hair and blue eyes. There are no signs of a beard and he is decidedly popular with the women of the town. He considers his attitude on kissing quite normal.

"It isn't hygienic in the first place," he said to an Evening World correspondent, "and I never had a desire to kiss a girl, anyway."

He admitted the second reason was more potent than the first, and a puzzled expression crept over his face at the question, "How is it any more hygienic for a man to kiss his sister than to kiss some other fellow's sister?"

To the query whether he had not made exceptions to the rule on the occasion of children's parties in his earlier years, Bennett responded positively, "No, sir."

"Never played Copenhagen, button-hole or postoffice?"

"Never heard of them, but if they are kissing games, but if that I went home about that time," responded Bennett.

Bennett says that on the evening he received the watch several girls would have kissed him had he permitted such a manifestation of familiarity.

NARROWLY ESCAPES BEING HOBBONIZED BY GIRLS.

"Isn't he cute?" said one.

"Looks good to me," volunteered another.

"I'm going to 'hobsonize' him," was the assertion of a third.

Indistinctly, Bennett grasped that "hobsonizing" was some sort of an ordeal through which the famous naval hero had to pass. Backing into a corner, Bennett held his fair inquisitors at arm's length.

Bennett is not averse to discussing the evils of drinking, smoking and swearing, which he says never had any charms for him, but says he is heartily sorry he ever pinned a rose on his coat lapel on the score of never having kissed a girl.

"It's true, all true, but I'll never mention kissing again as long as I live," said Bennett. "I don't bother the girls and for that reason they don't bother me."

The fund from which young Bennett got his watch was started in December, 1907, by Charles D. Rood of Springfield, Mass., and Lancaster, Penn. Mr. Rood, who acquired a fortune by hard work, has a theory that drinking, smoking and swearing are responsible for the failure of many young men. Mr. Rood doubted whether there would be any claimants for the watches, but five timepieces already have been distributed.

HOTEL ASTOR SUICIDE'S BURIAL HALTED BY CABLE

Message From London Delays
Removal From Morgue
to Potter's Field.

The body of "Maurice Stuart" was not removed to the Morgue to-day for burial in the Potter's Field because of a mysterious message from London. The man who shot himself through the heart at the Hotel Astor on Monday is now believed to have been a member of a wealthy English family, but not a noble one.

F. A. Muschenheim, owner of the hotel, received the cablegram from London. An assistant manager of the hotel and a detective went to the mortuary chapel in Eighth avenue, carefully examined the body and then sent a ten-word cable message in reply. Mr. Muschenheim said it would be a violation of confidence to make public the name of the sender of the message.

Nothing further has been heard from Mrs. M. S. Brady, a trained nurse of No. 135 West One Hundred and Fourth street, who yesterday looked at the body and intimated that the man was one she had seen in California, and was in charge of her husband's estate. The man, she told the Coroner, returned and said his husband had died poor, but she afterward heard he left a fortune in stocks. She would not reveal the name of the man she sent to California and did not identify the body. She formerly was Miss Mary Stuart of Hootchbay, Me.

No importance is attached to the statement of a chauffeur who said the man was a relative of the Duke of Sutherland, on whose estate the chauffeur formerly worked.

It is believed that if positive identification has been made, the man from London will be through the red and blue dragon tattooed on the man's arm.

AGED MINISTER IS DEAD.
Dr. Clark Had Been a Pastor
Fifty-six Years.

Rev. Dr. George W. Clark died this morning at his home in Hightstown, N. J., after a short illness. Dr. Clark was eighty-two years old, and during his life had written many religious books. More than 500,000 copies were sold to ministers, Sunday school teachers, and divinity schools.

Dr. Clark was a graduate of Amherst College and Rochester Theological Seminary. He was ordained a Baptist minister in 1855, and after filling many pulpits in both New York State and New Jersey, he became financial agent and missionary of the American Baptist Publication Society, which position he filled for twenty-five years. During that time he visited every church of the Baptist denomination in New Jersey at least once a year. He is survived by one son, Dr. G. Fish Clark, of Brooklyn.

KILLED FOR HIS HASTE.

Youth Tries to Jump on Moving
"L" Train and Is Crushed.

Alexander Polihay, eighteen, of No. 24 Elm street, Manhattan, ran for a West End train at the Seventy-ninth street station, in Brooklyn, shortly after midnight this morning.

He tried to jump aboard the platform of the forward car, but missed his footing and was killed. The shoe of the second car caught him and dragged his body for a car's length, wedging it between the bumpers and the station platform.

FIRE STARTS PANIC AMONG GIRLS IN EAST SIDE FACTORY

Escaping Blaze in Six-Story Building.

Crowds swarming over Williamsburg bridge to work in Manhattan witnessed a spectacular exodus from the six-story factory building at No. 384 Delancey street early to-day, occasioned by fire on the fifth floor, occupied by Hyman Grand & Son's leather box factory. Smoke poured from the windows and dozens of girls and men employed on other floors of the building scrambled down the fire escapes or leaped from the windows shouting for help.

The fire started in a closet filled with finished leather boxes. Hyman Grand and ten girls were present. As the girls carried out to put out the flames and save the rest of the stock. They stayed too long at the task and the loft filled with smoke and flame. Panic-stricken, the girls ran aimlessly around the loft, unable to find the exit. Several started for the windows, but one she had seen to California, and during his life had written many religious books. More than 500,000 copies were sold to ministers, Sunday school teachers, and divinity schools.

The alarm spread quickly to the other floors and there was a rush for the narrow stairway and fire escape. The building has no elevator and in the crush on the stairs several girls fainted. They were carried out by men employed on the premises.

Three fire alarms were turned in by persons who saw the smoke from the street and the fire department soon had control of the situation. When the firemen reached the fifth floor, Grand and the girls were still in the loft. They were wild with terror and had to be driven from the factory and down the stairs by the firemen and police.

Grand claims the fire did $5,000 damage to his stock.

MUFFLE ON YOUNG TYSON'S
AUTO IN CONNECTICUT.

Can't Dash Around Until He Explains His Part in Cos
Cob Accident.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 10.—The automobile driver's license of John H. Tyson, the young spending millionaire of Riverside, who has had many hair-raising escapades, was suspended to-day by the Secretary of State at Hartford. Notice was sent to Mr. Tyson and to the Greenwich police department. The license was suspended mainly because of discourtesy shown the automobile department of Connecticut.

Tyson will be unable to drive a car until he appears before the State authorities at Hartford with witnesses, as his attorney had promised would be done on Tuesday last, to explain his part in an automobile accident that occurred at Cos Cob, Sept. 30.

FIREMEN THANK CARDINAL FARLEY FOR HIS INTEREST

Commissioner Johnson Heads
Delegation to Wish Him
Pleasant Journey to Rome

A delegation of firemen, headed by Commissioner Johnson and Father McGean, chaplain of the Fire Department, called on Cardinal Designate Farley in his residence to-day. The firemen wished to express their appreciation of the great interest taken in the Department, and Commissioner Johnson in a short speech thanked the Cardinal, and also wished him a pleasant journey and a safe return to this country when he goes to Rome.

Cardinal Designate Farley, in reply to Mr. Johnson, said that he had always been interested in the Fire Department. Then he likened them to the police, saying that both had to respond to calls whether urgent or not. He spoke of the heroism of Captain Hahn of Brooklyn, who was killed recently when fighting a fire. He said also that the Fire Department is well spoken of in Europe, and that he had often heard it complimented for real, efficiency and bravery.

The delegation consisted of Commissioner Johnson, Deputy Commissioners Olvany and Farley, a nephew of the Cardinal, Acting Chief of Department Martin, Deputy Chiefs Hayes and Guerin, Battalion Chiefs Crawley, Scully, Devanny and Duffy, and Father McGean, chaplain of the Department.

WIFE'S AFFECTION DIED WHEN HIS LEGS WERE CUT OFF

So Mr. Pollatschek Alleges
When She Asks for Alimony.

Declaring that his wife's affection for him died when he lost his two legs, Jacques Pollatschek to-day opposes an application she made before Supreme Court Justice Seabury for alimony pending trial of a suit she has brought for a separation. Mrs. Pollatschek said her husband a year ago, but lost Mr. Pollatschek said he had gone through an illness that made it necessary for the amputation of his legs. His wife, he said, had abandoned him because he asked her to bathe and dress him after the operation.

Mrs. Pollatschek in renewing her suit for separation, declares this statement by her husband constitutes cruelty and she thinks she is entitled to the relief sought.

Justice Seabury reserved decision.

$1,000,000 TO DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. MacLay Hands on Trust Fund of Father, W. H. Havemeyer.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The will of Mrs. A. MacLay of Yorkville, daughter of the late William H. Havemeyer, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office here to-day.

To her daughters, Julia Havemeyer, Agnes Craig MacLay and Laura Grace MacLay, she leaves diamond rings, pins, gold and jeweled chains and silverware, as well as a trust fund from her father and the residue of the estate, which is valued at $1,000,000.

There is left an annuity. There is also left to her daughters a $100,000 note, payable on demand, which she held from her son-in-law, Charles Ward Hall.

ACCUSED BY RELATIVES.
HE GOES TO POLICE.

Milton Berlinger of Haddon Hall, No. 206 Riverside Drive, which until recently it was supposed he owned, saved his relatives the trouble of having him arrested by walking into the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street police station yesterday afternoon and reporting that he was "wanted" for grand larceny. His relatives had just filed a petition in bankruptcy against him in the United States District Court. They also accused him of selling them insurance policies of the Equitable Life, which they say are forgeries.

Fruit Company Manager Dead.
J. J. Dempsey, traffic manager of the United Fruit Company, died yesterday afternoon in his apartments at the Hotel Pierpont, Thirty-second street, near Broadway. Mr. Dempsey has been in poor health for two months. On Wednesday pneumonia was developed and yesterday his heart was affected. His wife was with him when he died. He was about forty-five years old.

CITY MARSHAL'S PARTNER IS TAKEN BEFORE GAYNOR

David Winkelman Goes to the Inquiry Handcuffed to Detective.

Detectives Freer and Dobbins caused excitement in the corridors of City Hall to-day when they came in handcuffed to David Winkelman, who is charged with using the office of City Marshal to procure private papers, and conducted him to the office of Commissioner of Accounts Foodick, where Mayor Gaynor is holding a hearing on the charge.

Winkelman is a partner of City Marshal H. Lazarus of East One Hundred and Twenty-first street and when Commissioner of Accounts Foodick made a charge against both it created a situation which may result in startling disclosures. It is alleged that Lazarus told Winkelman to go to the office of Frank & Wasserman, bookbinders, No. 65 Houston street, and make a seizure in the name of the city of a number of important private documents and books. It was set forth by the Commissioner that the seizure was made in violation of the law, and subsequently Winkelman was indicted for grand larceny.

The charges against Lazarus were taken up by the Mayor in the office of the Commissioner, where he was conducting an inquiry into the whole affair. Rumors about City Hall were that Winkelman had made a confession.

Friends of Lazarus declare the result of political spite on the part of Tammany. They bring forward as a reason the recent fight of Lazarus on Nicholas Hynes, Tammany leader in the Twenty-third District. Lazarus was a Tammany man up to a few days ago.

MURPHY STARTS ON VACATION WITH NOTHING TO SAY
But Foes Are Active and Will Rally for Bronx County Bill
as First Move to Oust Him.

Knowledge that Assemblymen from all parts of the State have promised their aid in passing the Bronx County bill did not visibly affect Tammany Chief Murphy, who left to-day for Mount Clemens, Mich. He was as inquisitive as ever on the eve of his departure, answering all questions with a smile or his other favorite expression, "Nothing to say."

It is understood the Chief is going to Michigan largely to attend a conference of Democratic leaders to talk over the Presidential campaign. He was invited before the recent election.

Murphy is said to feel confident of remaining in the Tammany boss, despite the forces working to bring about his overthrow. His friends declare he hasn't the slightest intention of stepping down. They say he does not believe the Bronx County bill can get by the Senate and the Governor.

But Republicans as well as Democrats are becoming active in the movement, and Republican County Chairman Koenig announces that a conference of Manhattan and Bronx leaders will be called soon to consider putting the bill through the next Assembly, which will be strongly Republican.

The four Fusion Assemblymen elected in the borough have promised to exert every effort to have the bill passed and a move is under way to form a non-partisan organization to help it along. Anti-Murphy Democrats all over the State will aid in boosting the bill. In it they see a hope of combining Kings, Queens, the Bronx and Richmond and controlling 22 out of the 47.

What about that
"Fine type" Compromise?
The war against certain dangerous drugs that we have all grown to know and fear is an honest war for the safety of every man, woman and child in the world. We fall heir to an occasional headache, toothache and neuralgia a despite extraordinary precaution. Mother Nature, since the first green herb, has provided safe antidotes for these three. At the same time there are some deadly "pain-killers," such as Acetanilid, Phenacetin, Morphine, Acetylphenetidin and antipyrin.

is free from ingredients tabooed by liberal physicians and the wise definitions of the Food and Drugs Act. Midol relieves the excruciating agony of neuralgia, toothache and headache without a "next-day" let-down of the entire system. To kill a pain with a pain is a relic of barbarism. Be a little more cautious in the future. Watch for that insidious small type which spells "Phenacetin or Acetanilid" anywhere on the label of some of the packages. Indirectly this is a warning to you. Midol relieves without depressing.
